Charles Stone:

General:

- Make drawings more readable by getting rid of excess information
- Use of tag and line is inconsistent
- Tell more about how you are achieving your mental goals
- Sell your points
- Give parallel info regarding sources and locations, some more detailed than others

Spaces:

- For the front entry, don't mention you want to avoid taking away from surrounding architecture. It sounds like you are censoring your design.
- Consider all of façade for the entry porch
- Make the front porch jump out more
- Lamp post fixtures is good idea, but in that way is too aggressive
- You have modern fixtures everywhere else and then the lamp post.
- Show sconces on office section

Luke Tighe:

General:

- Maximize size of pictures and renderings
- Add people in sections
- Slides with fixture examples have a bad layout – new text size

Spaces:

- Show the LED strips in application
- Origin and evolution/history has significance with the lamp posts
- Address basic tasks in News History Gallery
- Reconsider design considerations for office
- Add sconce in office section for a better concept
- Hard to tell where the edge of the desks are in office images
