

AE 297 / 479H: American Indian Housing Solutions: 2004

A Service Learning course

2004 Location: Northern Cheyenne reservation, Montana

Course Enrollment Application

Name _____

Enrollment Status/Major _____

Email _____

Interests / Skills

Architecture

Building Construction

Landscape Architecture

Writing

Teaching

American Indian Culture

Community Development

Domestic Policy

Communications

Green design / sustainability

Web Development

Other _____

Please Attach:

- Personal statement of interest including how you see this course fitting into your academic and professional career
- Current Resume
- Current Unofficial Transcript

Important Information:

Course Credit

Course credit will be distributed as follows: Spring '04 (2 credits) Summer '04 (0 credits) Fall '04 (2 credits). The Fall semester component may also be satisfied by alternative methods in the case of study abroad programs or graduation requirements. This course is currently in its third offering. Contact your advisor about the opportunities to count this course as a general education elective.

Program Requirements

This course and project will require your commitment to work on a team, and to complete various challenging lab and field exercises. The on-site experience may involve strenuous activity, and possibly harsh weather conditions. You will be required to supply your own gear.

Course Fee

A course fee of $400 is required for enrollment in this course. This fee covers basic accommodations in Montana, on-site transportation, and meals while on site. Fundraising opportunities are available.

Return this application by October 30, 2003 to:

David Riley

104 Engineering Unit A