

Richard Curran

Chief Security Officer, Intel's Global Cloud, Ent & Gov Group Sales

Richard holds the position of Chief Security Officer for Intel's Global Cloud, Ent & Gov Group Sales and is responsible for business development and coordination of Intel's security solutions and strategies to compliment all areas of the Datacentre, Cloud and Network Divisions.

Richard has been working for Intel for over 20 years and had held various leadership roles.

Richard has 40 years industry experience and has a strong personal brand in the EMEA IT industry.

His previous role was Security Officer for EMEA and worked with several Government Security Organization's and EU entities as well as the F500's in supporting their Security Transformation projects. He is a spokesperson for GDPR and works with key partners to enable secure Business Transformation. He also led business organizations in Solutions Marketing EMEA on Enterprise Computing, Cloud/Big Data, HPC, SMB and Telco. He also held posts as Business Development Sales Director EMEA and Consulting Services Director

EMEA.

During his career he worked in several other multinational companies including 10 year tenures in both Compaq Computer EMEA & Concurrent Computer Corporation. .