

Jennifer Hill

Chief Operating Officer & General Counsel – Remedy Analytics, Inc.

Jennifer has spent her career in leadership roles at innovative companies operating at the intersection of technology commercialization, data analytics and the law.

Currently, she is the Chief Operating Officer and General Counsel of Remedy Analytics, a medication-centric data analytics company creating significant financial savings and actionable clinical insights associated with the use of prescription drugs for patients and payers. Remedy's AI-enhanced proprietary platform unlocks opaque data enabling clarity and intelligent decisions. Jennifer oversees strategic planning, product development, operations, legal, data privacy and HIPAA-compliance, and the ongoing evolution of a fast-growing organization so that it scales profitably, effectively and happily.

Previously, she co-founded a mobile e-learning platform named by Forbes as a 2014 Start-Up to Watch. She practiced start-up, VC, M&A and licensing law with Gunderson Dettmer LLP and Fenwick & West LLP in NYC and Silicon Valley, serving as outside general counsel for dozens of technology companies (corporate governance, general management and licensing) and advising VCs and serial acquirors on investments in the US and internationally. She also launched the NYC presence of a non-profit organization accelerating and funding female high-growth entrepreneurs.

Her passion for technology and data extends to the political realm as well. Jennifer was a leader in voter protection and data capture efforts on two presidential campaigns, managing teams that organized, trained and deployed thousands of poll watchers in battleground states on Election Day, to ensure the right to vote and collect and analyze data critical to a fair election process.

Beyond the law, she is acknowledged as an expert on small business, entrepreneurship and high-growth tech companies. She appears on MSNBC's Your Business, co-hosted a tv show on CBS Interactive, has been featured in Entrepreneur Magazine and AMEX Open Forum, and has written for numerous media outlets.

She holds an A.B. in International Relations with Honors from Stanford and a JD/MBA from the Northwestern University School of Law/Kellogg School of Management. She lives in Hoboken, New Jersey with her family and also speaks Spanish.